

Exelon
Supplier Code of Conduct

Exelon values our business relationships with our contractors, consultants, suppliers, and vendors (collectively our “Suppliers” for the purpose of this code). We count on our Suppliers to help us fulfill our mission to provide clean, reliable, affordable energy and innovative energy products, and deliver the best service to our customers. Exelon works with a diverse group of Suppliers who support and share our commitment to the highest standards of safety, professional conduct, quality, value, service, reliability, availability, and technical excellence. Because our Suppliers and their employees and subcontractors are integral to our work, we expect them to share our values and hold our Suppliers accountable for adherence to this Exelon Supplier Code of Conduct.

The Exelon Supplier Code of Conduct outlines Exelon's expectations and standards for ethical conduct with which all Suppliers, their subcontractors, and their respective workforces must comply when working for or on behalf of Exelon, and is grounded in the values Exelon employees live by every day:

- We are dedicated to safety.
- We actively pursue excellence.
- We innovate to better serve our customers.
- We act with integrity and are accountable to our communities and the environment.
- We succeed as an inclusive and diverse team.

Relationship to Contract Documents

In the event of any conflict or apparent conflict between the requirements of the contract documents and this Supplier Code of Conduct, the Supplier must comply with the requirements of the contract documents and bring the inconsistency to the attention of Exelon's Supply Department and the designated business representative for the applicable contract documents.

Compliance with Laws and Highest Ethical Standards

Suppliers must comply with all applicable laws and regulations governing the work they perform for Exelon. In addition, Exelon holds Suppliers to the same high standards of integrity and ethical conduct to which it holds itself and its employees. Supplier interactions with Exelon personnel must reflect honesty, integrity, and transparency. Suppliers must ensure required training of their workforce has been completed prior to starting any work for Exelon, and during the term of the contract between Exelon and the Supplier. Suppliers must also ensure that all employees supporting Exelon's operations are aware of the standards described in this Exelon Supplier Code of Conduct.

Health and Safety

The safety of the public, employees, and Suppliers is Exelon's highest priority. Suppliers must ensure their employees comply with all applicable occupational health and safety laws and regulations, including requirements that address occupational safety, emergency preparedness, occupational injury and illness, industrial hygiene, injury and illness recordkeeping and reporting, and physically demanding work.

Suppliers must also: (i) control exposure to workforce hazards by and to workers and to the public; (ii) make available safety information to all employees to educate, train, and protect them from workplace safety hazards; and (iii) ensure all members of their workforce are trained and empowered to stop work any time unsafe conditions or behaviors are observed until the job can be completed safely.

Basic safety and health expectations and requirements are set forth below. Additional requirements specific to the work undertaken by Suppliers may be specified in contract documents.

Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion

At Exelon, we share a passion for diversity, equity, and inclusion that guides the way we work and conduct business. We realize competitive advantages from the energy and talents each of us brings to the workplace. Exelon serves some of the nation's largest and most ethnically diverse geographic areas—including Baltimore, Chicago, Washington D.C., Philadelphia, Delaware, and southern New Jersey. This means our supplier base, as well as our workforce and culture, must reflect the diversity of our customers and the communities we serve.

We are committed to maximizing opportunities for minority, women, veteran/service-disabled veteran, and LGBTQ-owned business enterprises. We work with a diverse group of Suppliers that share our commitment to the highest standards to help us deliver the best service for our customers. We search for Suppliers that share this value and encourage our Suppliers to support our goals for diverse Suppliers, including utilization of diverse prime and subcontractors, and development of their own diversity programs. We require accurate reporting of diverse subcontracting. We view diversity-certified businesses as valued partners in our efforts to serve our customers, and we believe that partnership will help diverse business enterprises develop and grow. Not only does this benefit Exelon, but it also empowers the community.

Environment

Exelon's commitment to the environment is integral to meeting customers' expectations and reducing Exelon's environmental impact on future generations, while also ensuring that we meet or exceed all environmental laws and regulations. Exelon Utilities set a Path to Clean Goal for 50% GHG emissions reduction by 2030 and strives to achieve net-zero Operations by 2050. This includes a commitment to support customers and communities in reaching their clean energy and emissions reduction goals. We expect Suppliers to share these goals by identifying and implementing opportunities to reduce or eliminate energy usage, greenhouse gas emissions, waste, and pollution at its source, and continually improving efficiency of resource and materials use.

Conflicts of Interest

Suppliers must exercise reasonable care and diligence to prevent any actions or conditions that could result in either an actual conflict with Exelon's interests or the appearance of such a conflict of interest, or that may compromise the exercise of independent judgment during the execution of Suppliers' work for or on behalf of Exelon. Specifically:

Personal Relationships

To combat the appearance of favoritism or a conflict of interest, Suppliers shall disclose to the Exelon Compliance and Ethics Office any close personal relationships between members of the Supplier's workforce doing business with Exelon, or their family members, and any Exelon employee in a position to influence business decisions regarding the supplier. No Exelon employee who may be in a position to influence business decisions regarding a Supplier may hold any position with or have a significant financial interest in a Supplier.

Gifts and Entertainment

Suppliers may not provide gifts or anything of value to Exelon employees or their family members for the purpose of receiving business from Exelon or obtaining preferred treatment from Exelon in any business transaction.

Exelon discourages the giving of gifts to Exelon employees. However, Exelon employees may accept reasonable and infrequent gifts of modest value for which there is no likelihood of actual or perceived improper influence. Suppliers may also provide infrequent meals or entertainment that serve a business purpose at business-appropriate locations and are of reasonable value; however, the Supplier's employees must be present (otherwise these are gifts). Gifts of cash or cash equivalents, such as gift cards, securities, or loans, are prohibited.

When a Supplier is on a Supplier Performance Improvement Plan with Exelon, is engaged in a significant dispute with Exelon, or there is a pending business transaction of particular significance to either the Supplier or Exelon, the Supplier may not offer gifts, meals, or entertainment of any kind to Exelon employees.

Bribery and Corruption

Exelon has no tolerance for bribery or corruption. Suppliers conducting business on behalf of Exelon must not offer or make any improper payments of money or anything of value to government officials, either domestic or foreign, political parties, candidates for public office, or other persons. Suppliers must take reasonable steps to ensure their personnel do not, offer or accept any bribe or kickback to and/or from any Exelon customer, Supplier, or employee.

Suppliers must comply with anti-corruption laws that govern their operations in all relevant jurisdictions. Exelon's compliance program requires reporting of requests, recommendations, and referrals from public officials relating to work for Exelon to ensure that such communications do not inappropriately influence Exelon's supplier selection. The program further requires disclosure by Suppliers to Exelon of elected or appointed office held by an officer, director, or key employee of a Supplier in a jurisdiction in which Exelon conducts business. The policies can be found on the Governance page of Exelon's website, including this summary of the program. Any questions regarding these policies or reporting should be directed to EthicsOffice2@exeloncorp.com.

Fair Competition

Suppliers must compete fairly. Suppliers must not enter into agreements, formal or otherwise, with their competitors to restrain trade, such as agreements to fix prices, rig bids, or divide territories/markets. Suppliers must not misrepresent their products or services, or their competitors' products or services.

Suppliers are expected to help safeguard and maintain the integrity of Exelon's bid and contract negotiation process. Suppliers shall refrain from initiating or participating in private discussions about a bid or proposed contract (prior to an award) with any Exelon employee or business contact not specifically authorized to speak on Exelon's behalf in order to influence the outcome of a bid or contract award. This prohibition does not apply to a Supplier's disclosure and notification of potential conflicts of interest or reporting violations or concerns to Exelon.

News Media and Social Media

Typically, Exelon does not participate (or allow its name and/or logo to be used) in supplier press releases, media statements or social media posts, unless there is a clear business case to do so. Exelon Corporate Affairs, Legal and Supply have governance on whether and how Exelon will participate in supplier press releases or other marketing vehicles. Please allow adequate time for your Exelon business partners to consult with those groups on any use of Exelon's name or logo in your materials.
